

Program Specific Learning Outcomes for Allied Health

- Learn and apply the fundamentals of specific sciences utilized in the Health Care Field.
- Prepare students to enter Nursing, Physician Assistant, Emergency, Surgical, Respiratory, Laboratory, Radiology or other Allied Health Programs.
- Demonstrate basic communications and critical thinking skills for professional application.
- Utilize medical terminology in documentation and discussions.
- Integrate science and lab application to health and disease conditions.
- Provide a practical basis for providing client care or service and appropriate documentation.
- Apply the skills necessary to interact purposefully and appropriately with colleagues and clients.
- Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of anatomical, physiological, psychosocial, and scientific principles required for client assessment/service delivery and/or care.